NAME OF PROGRAM	UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI CENTER FOR AGROFORESTRY (UMCA) TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER AND OUTREACH UNIT
Address	203 ABNR, Columbia, MO 65203 (573) 884-2874 Fax: (573) 882-1977 E-mail: umca@missouri.edu www.missouri.edu/~umca
Assistance Type	The UMCA Technology Transfer and Outreach Unit provides information and training programs for natural resource professionals, landowners, conservation organizations and other interested publics about agroforestry practices applicable in Missouri. Technical assistance is also provided in the design and implementation of agroforestry practices. We do not provide financial assistance but work closely with agencies that do.
Audience	Landowners, natural resource professionals, conservation organizations, communities and other interested publics.
Services	Information, educational programs and training workshops.
Comments	Agroforestry is a set of integrated land use practices that combines trees, shrubs, forages, grasses, livestock and crops in innovative and flexible combinations that meet landowner objectives. The goal in agroforestry is to diversify farm production while increasing income and providing conservation benefits. We work closely with the Missouri Department of Conservation, University Outreach and Extension and the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

NAME OF PROGRAM	VALUE-ADDED AGRICULTURAL OUTREACH
Address	University of Missouri – Columbia 207 Agricultural Engineering Building Columbia, MO 65211 (573) 882-1150 or (573) 884-1725 or (573) 882-2032
Assistance Type	The Value-Added Office provides a point of contact for producers and businesses to tap into the University faculty's expertise.
Audience	The challenge of the University of Missouri's Office of Value-Added Agriculture Outreach is to help Missouri producers develop innovative ways to make their products more valuable.

Services	Assistance can range from a single inquiry on product labeling to long-range partnerships in developing state-of-the-art production facilities.
Comments	Missouri has a diverse agricultural and food processing economy. More than 1,000 firms process the state's cereals, oilseeds, cotton, swine, beef, dairy and other basic commodities. This activity creates nearly $7 billion and 50,000 jobs in Missouri. Yet, many more opportunities exist for businesses to realize increased profits by adding value to their products before they leave the state.
